Filling of vacancies has been a challenge since it is a moving target and below the story of how the vacancies have evolved over the past 16 months: - The initial number of vacancies was a total of 575. - To ensure service delivery excellence, improve efficiencies and sustainability a review of GFOM vacancies was ignited, with the view to focus and prioritize those that were deemed critical, this resulted in the addition of 486 so called 'Priority Vacancies' - There was a further increase of additional vacancies from 486 to 1044 due to identified vacancies in Enterprise Security. - A decision was then taken to insource Enterprise Security, however, a phased approach was followed which meant prioritising the filling of natural attrition positions first and then growth insourcing. - Additionally, the pressure to deliver on strategic projects, resulted in more vacancies being identified. These were referred to as Capex Vacancies and were a total of 71 vacancies. - When adding Priority vacancies + Additional vacancies + security insourcing + Capex vacancies the total number of vacancies rose to 1694. - To date, 413 vacancies have been filled in the last 16 months. - There was also peak season recruitment take ran through the months of October to December 2023.
